Contents

It is a critical skill to present your opinion in language appropriate to non-specialist audience, not only in research, but in various occasions in your life. This session will give you TIPS to attract audience by 3 minute presentation. It's beneficial to all students, but especially good for master & doctorate students to learn public communication.

Target

ALL Students (B,M,D)

Facilitator: Todd Allen

Todd completed his Bachelor of Arts at Western Sydney University in Japanese language and linguistics. In 2018, Todd completed his PhD program at the University of Queensland, which kicked off the 3MT competition back in 2008. He has lectured and taught a number of courses at the University of Queensland, which included intercultural communication, language and technology and applied linguistics and language studies, at both undergraduate and postgraduate levels.
